She Wanted a Man.

A widow, or something of that kind, out in Armstrong county, a few months ago tried the experiment of buying a husband. She looked over the ground with as much wisdom as she had and finally paid twenty thousand dollars for one. Anybody would suppose that at this price the woman would have secured a very fair sample of a man, but the purchase seems to have been a miserable failure. The fellow got his twenty thousand dollars and gathered together some other loose property belonging to the widow and some of her neighbors, after which he went to some portion of the country now unknown. The woman was most disgracefully swindled in every particular. She should have known better than to buy an Armstrong county man, if they are held at twenty thousand dollars each, when she could have gone to Harrisburg and bought half of the Pennsylvania Legislature for a quarter of the sum, in which case she would have had some money left after her husband had absconded. It isn't probable that she would have secured a much better article of a man, but she wouldn't have been so badly taken in. She must read the newspapers with more care, and learn that men and things are getting down to hard pan, and men in particular sell much cheaper than they did a few years ago. She could have bought Congressman for a thousand, and had at least no worse an experience with him. But the poor thing is doubtless convinced of her rashness by this time, and has learned a lesson in the matter of buying husbands at fabulous prices which she will never forget.—Philadelphia Times.

Horses and the Horse Trade.

The number of horses in the United States is estimated at 8,000,000 Illinois ranking first in number of equines, New York next, with over a half million; then Ohio, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Texas, Iowa, Indiana, and Kentucky. The number of horses in the New England States is estimated at 5,000,000, Maine having the largest number, and Massachusetts next. The farm or workhorse of Maine and Vermont are noted throughout the land. The farmer who breeds horses knows his own interest well enough to study the tastes of the community, and to breed up to them. Speed is, to be sure, only one of the many qualities, which are essential to a good roadster, and size, style, action, temper, form, constitution, and enduring qualities are equally important in making a general estimate of the character of horses. The horses raised in Maine are, generally speaking, fine specimens of the equine race. So are those imported from Vermont and Canada, the latter having peculiarities of their own, quite distinct from the thorough New England animal. The weight of a good roadster may vary from 950 to 1,100 pounds. For ordinary purposes on the road and for general work an old horse dealer tells us that from 1,000 to 1,100 pounds is heavy enough. A large sized horse would not be found serviceable in horse-cars, omnibuses or hacks, and certainly not in the buggy or light carriage. A heavy horse will not last as long over the hard pavements of the city, as a medium-sized one. The practice now conforms to this rule, we believe, as strangers especially will notice in all large cities (in the East, at least) small, quick, tough horses for most kinds of work. A medium-sized horse will range from 14 1/2 to 15 1/2 hands in height.—Dutton's Spirit of the Turf.

There is no man who feels so cheap as he who goes about asking what would be a good inscription for a tombstone and has his own name suggested.

PARKIE'S OPINION - THAT SETTLES IT.

Deacon Parkinson, of the Tribune, has figured it all to his own satisfaction, and says:

Apropos of Court matters, I beg leave to state that the report so industriously circulated, that Judge Wright is very unpopular in Reno, is entirely without foundation. I have interviewed some of the most prominent business men and find them to a man loud in praise of the acts of Judge Wright. I firmly believe that the report of the grand jury was a job put up by certain smart office seekers. It has been charged that Judge Wright has been led by R. M. Clarke, but the attorneys deny the statement in toto, and as a general thing the legal fraternity support the Judge and denounce the acts of the jurors. The people have no charges to make against Judge, Clerk, Sheriff, or any other officer; on the contrary, they seem to lay the whole blame on the grand jury that made the report, and hint that some scheming politician got up the whole report. Many of the charges made against the District Judge are so entirely ridiculous that a child of ten years could easily see through their flimsiness. I desire by this statement to make the good people of Ormsby county aware that any statement concerning his unpopularity in Reno is without foundation and really untrue; and further, that the Ormsby and Douglas county folks may be sure that their support will insure reciprocity from the voters of Washoe county.

Mr. Parkinson, like all truly great and good men, is liable to err. His belief that the report was put up and so on is only remarkable for its lack of foundation, and the inferences drawn from the belief are almost equal to the good man's assumption. We suggest the bare possibility that there are good citizens here whose confidence Parkie has not enjoyed, and perhaps others who know Washoe county's business better than he. His opinion, however, we quote more to show that certain facts have received endorsement in Ormsby county than because any special refutation is wanted. Mr. Parkinson will hardly be able to explain away direct charges by voicing the ring's wishes in his paper; and as for Judge Wright, he has stated that he will not be a candidate, and hence is not public property. We suggest to the venerable scribbler that the subscribing portion of this community would increase more rapidly if he formed his opinions upon facts instead of imagination. Mr. P. has admitted to us that he had no interest in the welfare of this place, we incline to a firm belief that his opinion is of equal value with his investment.

AN UNEXPECTED HONOR.

The Tribune says it learns that the editor of this paper will be a candidate for State Senator. When it is remembered that we have always been ambitious the reader will readily see that this is a mistake. We are now negotiating with Daggett and Jones to secure a withdrawal of one of these gentlemen and the substitution of our own name. Not that we have anything against either of these gentlemen, but we deem ourselves more available than either. If we can not be gratified in one of these requests, we shall not run for office at all. Hope the Tribune will not insist.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser greets with enthusiasm Jeff Davis' Macon letter concerning "the immortal Lost Cause," as it calls it. It says: "The cause for which our glorious confederates died needs no penitential plea. It was a righteous cause—sealed by as noble blood as was ever shed in any cause or in any land. Its failure can never make it wrong, and not the penitential pleas of the feeble nor the bold abuse of the ignoble can ever dim the brightness of its faith or diminish the glory of its dead or tarnish the fame of its heroes. Jeff. Davis himself," it adds, "is one of those glorious characters in his history of the world which, as time and events roll on, rise higher and brighter in the solitude of their glory."

Yesterday at the old Williams mills, seventeen miles from Santa Cruz, Jas. O'Brien killed a young man named Albert Jones, who was shot in the breast and mouth. The killing is said to have been justifiable.

EXPLANATORY.

The Gazette has been open in its denunciations of Carson and its people, never losing an opportunity to throw slurs or put in a word calculated to deter people from investing in her interests. The motive has been taken into consideration, and the effect fallen harmless to the ground. Carson will have races—successful ones—the Gazette and Tom Norcross to the contrary notwithstanding.—Carson Tribune.

So closes a reply of the young editor of the Tribune, to our replication to an article from his pen. While the matter quoted above is not strictly relevant to our statements, yet we take occasion to correct the false light in which he seeks to place us. We certainly bear no animosity toward Carson or its people, nor are we aware that in our reply to Mr. Parkinson, we thereby in fact, or by inference, cast a slur upon the good citizens of the State capital.

We surmise from the Tribune's article that several of these races may hang fire, and that it is feared that the outside support may not meet their anticipations. As to our motives in the matter, we presume that we can interpret them quite as correctly as the genial local of the Tribune; but as to the motives he would attribute to us, we can say only this—if they fall harmlessly to the ground we cannot prevent it or care for them afterwards. They are the gentleman's and he has sole charge of them. We said that the Carson races were made up after Mr. Norcross had made out his programme, and subsequent proof verifies our statement. It is true that the first race was arranged for, but that was all. The four remaining races were thought of and programmed about one week after Tom Norcross advertised his three days races. But all this is something which we care little about. Both Carson and Reno may and can have several good races on the 4th, 5th and 6th of July, and we trust that such may be the case. We wish it understood, however, that we do not denounce Carson, nor, the editor of the Tribune to the contrary, are we aware that we have ever denounced that pleasant little town.

The President Preserves his Equanimity.

Intimate friends of the President say he shows no disquiet whatever in view of the pending proceedings in the House concerning the alleged election frauds, but exhibits the same apparent equanimity of temper that has marked his conduct ever since his inauguration. He had not in the past the slightest knowledge of frauds by political managers in Florida and Louisiana other than the published accusations on the Democratic side. During the canvass and investigations in these States he was entirely reserved and took no part whatever concerning them, leaving the responsibility to those who performed such business. President Grant, while Executive, suggested that gentlemen whose characters were well known to the country should go there and examine into all the facts, so that their report or conclusions should inspire respect. President Hayes took no part in the suggestions of his immediate predecessor, and did not interfere in any way whatever. At the time the returning boards were at work, and up to the latest hour when the contest was closed, he regarded the general result uncertain as to the Republican party in the contest. He received no communications from any of the Republican visitors or those of any other States, nor was he in the remotest degree complicated by the proceedings of his friends in the matters stated. In fact, his intimate friends say that during the period of the uncertainty of his election he manifested no desire to occupy the Presidential chair, leaving the determination of the question to others. The President said this morning that there was nothing new in the proposed investigation, but while frauds, if any were committed, should be exposed, such exposure would not invalidate his title to the Presidential chair, as this had been settled and declared by a commission constituted under the solemn act of Congress. Vice-President Wheeler, having returned from New York, this morning called upon the President, and having subsequently been asked what the President said regarding the pending proceedings in the House, replied: "The President did not even allude to the subject. My visit was on other and entirely different business."

The Virginia Chronicle informs us, says the Eureka Republican, that after the performance of Evangeline "the chorus of the troupe, under the leadership of Mr. Rice, serenaded, Colonel Fair, at his residence." This was a well-timed compliment to a distinguished patron of music and the drama, and it would not have made the least bit of difference to the Evangeline chorus if Mr. Fair had been a miner working for $4 per day instead of a humble milli-maire as he is.

They steal sheets and shirts from clothes-lines in Tuscarora, and the Times-Review acknowledges with a shudder that officers are on the offenders' track.

Ward Reflex: In the neighborhood of Death valley (so called) and Resting springs, where wood is not to be thought of, the cactus grows most luxuriantly, outstrips all its known efforts and takes the form of a tree, many of them producing two cords of wood, which, as a substitute for the old regulation article in a desert land is not to be despised.

Mr. Edison, the inventor, is said to dislike eating and to be very impatient of the time spent in that pleasant exercise. His friends say that when the frenzy of a new invention is upon him they are obliged to study his moods, and put food about on benches where he can not help seeing it. "I hate this eating business," he is quoted as saying; "I always avoid it when I can." He is working on an extremely cheap and efficient electric motor especially designed to operate sewing machines and light machinery. He is perfecting the phonograph, and has been able to reproduce words spoken fifteen feet from the instrument. He has improved it so that words spoken into the instrument in the ordinary tone of voice by any person are perfectly recorded and can be reproduced.

In the Ninth Ward an anti-Kearney club held a meeting Tuesday evening, which was attacked by the Kearneyites, who blocked up the entrance and crowded into the hall, hooting and jeering. Finally the mob began to break the windows, pouring in volleys of stones and other missiles. The meeting was finally compelled to adjourn without nominating delegates to the convention.

One of those old maids who write wisdom for the Eastern press advises: "A golden rule for a young lady is to converse always with their female friends as though a gentleman were of the party, and with young men as if their female friends were present." The young woman over in Tuscarora who married a little while ago and found she had another woman for a husband probably followed this golden rule.—Eureka Republican.

In the suit for damages for breach of promise of marriage of Margery Watson vs. Frederick Powell, Judge Thornton, of the Twenty-third District Court, rendered judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $5,000.

There is something sad about a harp, but whether it's the tone or the collection taken by the player what puzzles the philosophical mind.

Republican State Central Committee.

According to previous notice, the members of the Republican State Central Committee met yesterday in Strother's office, Virginia City. All the counties in the State, except Churchill, were represented. Eureka was chosen as the place for holding the State Convention, and September 18th was set as the time.

The fourteen counties of the State were apportioned the following number of delegates: Churchill 1, Douglas 4, Elko 11, Esmeralda 7, Eureka 15, Humboldt 5, Lincoln 5, Lander 5, Lyon 6, Nye 5, Ormsby 9, Storey 37, Washoe 13, White Pine 7, Total—130.

The following resolution was adopted, after which the Committee adjourned:

Resolved, This Committee recommends to the various County Committees to adopt such restrictions at the primaries as shall exclude all except well known Republican voters from voting at such primaries.

The County Clerk's Platform.

Mr. Comstock does not admit the truth of any charge made by the grand jury excepting those which would be covered and excused by a reasonable clerical error. He is anxious for investigation in any manner which may prove or disprove his position.

Stocks.—The stock market is about as steady as Dan Mattox used to be.
One day in the dumps at the poorhouse with a mustard plaster on his stomach, the next he would be way up and have a cool hundred thousand in his mind's eye. When stocks are way up that is a good time to sell what you have. When they are way down, that is a good time to keep out. You are ahead if you get out either time.

DIED OF HIS INJURIES.—Augustus Fritz an employee on Biddleman's ranch, was run over by the wheels of a four horse wagon last Tuesday afternoon and received such injuries thereby that at 2 A. M. yesterday he died.

TAX-PAYERS' MEETING.—The taxpayers' meeting, which is to be held soon, will probably be set down for Tuesday night next. Formal notice will be given to-morrow.

THE HARRINGTON CASE.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning Miss Julia Regan, the young lady who was innocently yet principally the cause of the death of J. C. Sullivan, took the witness stand. She is a very pleasant looking young lady of nearly seventeen years of age, and resides with her mother and stepfather at Virginia City. We did not hear all of her testimony, but from the part which we heard we gather the following account of her evidence: Jas. Harrington and myself were first engaged to marry about two years ago; my cousin John C. Sullivan, who was killed, advised me not to marry the defendant, because he (Harrington) was a hard case; John was my cousin, and I thought much of him and looked upon him as a protector of mine; he often visited our family; I knew him about four years; I am friendly toward Harrington, too, but don't like one or two things which he did. The witness was not asked what these things were as they related, of course, to what is known to all parties.

Con Sullivan, the stepfather of Miss Regan, was then called. The substance of his evidence is as follows: I have known Harrington for many years; a few days before the killing the deceased asked me for a pistol or a knife, saying that Harrington intended marrying his cousin, and that he would die himself or kill Harrington, before she should marry him; I told the deceased that he must be crazy, and did not let him have any weapons. On the evening of the shooting, July 22d, 1876, he went into Dan Harrington's saloon, where John Sullivan and several others were at the time. All took a drink and John and Harrington soon entered into an angry discussion; both went out of the saloon and continued their conversation, and came near having a fight; Harrington drew his pistol, but I came between them and took John into the saloon; inside of the saloon John was kept by his friends, but tried to go outside, also saying that he would go to Harrington if he was cut to pieces; John had been drinking; about 5 or 10 minutes after, John went outside and had been there some three minutes when the firing began; Sullivan was about 24 years old.

M. Twoley, the bar-tender, was the next witness, but gave no evidence of special interest, save as to the loud and boisterous talk of Sullivan.

Geo. Winecoop next testified, but did not see the shooting and knew little of the affair.

Wm. Smith was the next witness.
He testified that he heard an unknown man, while passing him on the evening of July 19th, say: "I'll fix the s—b—to-night." Saw this man talk to Harrington and whilst so doing saw him pull something from his vest; saw Sullivan after his death, and think that he was the man who passed me on the evening of the 19th.

The deposition of A. B—, of Tuscarora, was read in evidence immediately after the assembling of court at 1 o'clock.

The circumstances of the murder of John C. Sullivan are these: Jas. Harrington was an ex-State Prison bird, and was known by the deceased to be a bad man. Harrington met a Miss Julia Regan, a girl of fourteen years who was yet wearing short dresses, and who was a cousin of Sullivan. Harrington went to see her and it was not long until they were engaged to be married. Sullivan saw that his cousin was about to commit a very rash act, and so advised her. She of course told Harrington, and the men were at once enemies. On the evening of July 22d, 1876, they met at Daniel Harring-ton's saloon. Sullivan was in liquor and felt very bitterly toward Harrington. They quarreled, and Harrington hung around the saloon until he obtained a slight pretext for shooting the deceased. The shooting was cowardly nor had he any excuse for murdering the poor young man who had his cousin's good alone at heart.

In December, '76, Harrington was tried in the First District Court and sentenced to be hanged, but a new trial was obtained because the objection to Harrington's testimony that he was afraid of his life at the hand of Sullivan, sustained by the Court. The Supreme Court took a different view of the matter and granted him a new trial. A jury could not be obtained in Storey, and the case was by a change of venue, transferred to this Court.

—The strawberry festival last night at the Methodist church, was a success in every respect. $28 are the net receipts.

JUST THE THING.—A neatly dressed man can take some comfort with himself and at the same time be favorably regarded by his friends. It is true economy to buy good clothing, and of a style in conformity with the prevailing patterns. The next question is, where shall one get, during these hard times, a good article of underwear, business or dress suit, which gives satisfaction in price and quality of goods? Messrs. Cohen & Isaacs, at the Branch White House, on Commercial Row, next door to the post-office, is your place, gentlemen. They have all the latest styles of men's and boy's clothing, and at all prices and sizes.
Their stock is both large and complete.
A man can go into their store and get a full outfit, hat, suit of outer and underwear, and boots or shoes as he may prefer. These gentlemen have just received a full stock of spring and summer clothing, and defy competition in their selling prices, as well as in the quality of goods which they sell. 4-28 tf.

STATE JOCKEY CLUB.—The State Jockey Club met yesterday in Virginia city, but transacted no business.
The Rep. State Central Committee engrossed the attention of the club. The meeting was therefore postponed until the 22d, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the speed programme for the State fair races made out.

Private Medical Institute.

309, KEARNEY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO.

For the Permanent Cure of all Special and Chronic Diseases, as also all Female Complaints and Diseases of the Nervous System.

THE IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF human life annually from secret and chronic diseases, caused this old and reliable institution to be established, first in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1850, and afterwards in San Francisco, Cal., in 1854, as a private dispensary. In order to afford the afflicted the best medical and surgical treatment, for the above and all other affections and complaints, the Institute, at the expense of the donor, has been situated at the Institute, or by letter, FREE.

To the Afflicted:

Dr. L. J. Czapkey would most respectfully inform the public of the Pacific coast that, at the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, and hundreds of those unfortunates afflicted with disease, he has reopened his MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE and resumed the practice of his profession.

The Doctor would remind all those who are in need of medical aid, that since relinquishing his very extensive and successful practice in San Francisco, he has visited the principal cities in Europe, inspecting diligently the experience of the most learned in the profession, the benefit from which he offers to all in need of his services.

Rheumatic affections, catarrh, diseases of the stomach and kidneys, liver complaints, etc., successfully treated. Those who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, physical and mental debility, are assured of a permanent cure. Charges moderate. All communication strictly confidential. Medical cases sent by express. Address:
